

Conversion to LLP

What is our name?

As from 1 May 2019 any reference to “Seddons” means Seddons Law LLP.

Why did we convert to an LLP?

It is our objective to continue growing our business for the benefit of both our clients and our staff. As we grow, an LLP offers a more corporate structure, which will assist us in managing our business effectively and investing in it in a structured way. We will continue to develop the range of services we provide to clients as their needs change. We also believe that this modern structure will enable us to continue to motivate and attract high quality talent in to the business.

Does this change affect you?

No. We will continue to provide the exceptional service our clients are accustomed to. Our team structures and quality control systems remain the same. The conversion does not, in any way, affect the day to day running of the firm and we are still regulated by, and adhere to the Code of Conduct of the Solicitors Regulation Authority.

Has the solicitor dealing with your case changed?

No, the solicitor dealing with your case has remained the same. It is very much business as usual, and no internal restructuring has taken place.

What do you need to do?

Nothing. Provided you continue to instruct us then you will be deemed to have consented to the transfer of your matter(s) to Seddons Law LLP.

Does it impact our bank account and how invoices rendered in the name of the partnership are settled?

No. Our bank account numbers remain unchanged. Payments addressed to “Seddons” or “Seddons Law LLP” will be accepted by the bank on behalf of the LLP from 1 May 2019.

Do we still have professional indemnity insurance?

Yes. We continue to have the same level of cover as before the conversion.

Your matter closed pre conversion: what has happened to any Property which the partnership held for you?

In this context “Property” means any deeds, wills, original items and other hard and soft copy documents. The LLP has assumed responsibility for all such Property held in its archive or at its premises from conversion. If you would like to retrieve your documents let us know, otherwise our continued storage of your Property will be deemed to constitute your consent to this change in responsibility.

What have we done with your data?

Any data you provided to the partnership has been transferred to the LLP on conversion. Unless you tell us you no longer wish us to hold your data, you are deemed to have consented to this transfer.

For further information about conversion to LLP see our Legal Policy.

For specific queries, please contact the Partner dealing with your matter or email our Compliance Officer for Legal Practice, rebecca.arnold@seddons.co.uk.

